In celebration of International Education Week, the VCU Global Education Office is pleased to present the following film series.

Thursday, November 2: To Live - Banned in China, this award-winning film captures the struggles and tragedies of an impoverished Chinese family, spanning the 1940s’ Chinese civil war through the Cultural Revolution of the ‘60s and ‘70s.

Wednesday, November 8: 3 Idiots – Two friends are searching for their missing college buddy who inspired them to think outside the box of the traditional Indian higher education system.

Wednesday, November 15: Rabbit-Proof Fence - Based on a true story, this film follows the journey of three young Aboriginal “half-caste” girls who were forcibly removed from their families by Australian government officials in 1931 to be trained for positions of servitude among whites.

All films will be shown at 7:30 p.m., followed by a discussion, in the Commons Theater.
